

Dear Mr. Adams,

I recently heard about your intent to develop a site committed to busting frauds and exploiting schemers and grifters both big and small before bringing them to justice. I must say that the timing of this could not be better given the state of our economy and the overwhelming feeling of betrayal and suspicion that the American people have toward their brokers, accountants and seemingly all financial institutions. What a great service it would be to have a site that could calm our greatest fears and let us know who is legitimate and who is in the deserved shadows of our fiercest skepticism. Everyone at my company looks forward to your important work, and we can't wait to see you and your team exploit these criminals and bring them to justice. We feel so strongly about your intent and about people's desires to see this that we would love to document your efforts in a first-class television series. It is our desire to complement your site with a docu-reality show focused on you and your team and those you build cases against and take down. We believe that this is a TV show that everyone who has ever been shortchanged would watch and love. We would like to send our crew to New York and film a presentation for network by mid-2010 if your scheduling permits. Please let us know if there is anything we can do to help with your efforts. We look forward to your thoughts.

Regards,

Andy Weiss

Writing/Producing Credits include:

Scrappers (Spike TV)
Punk'd (MTV)
Buzzin' (MTV)
Yeah, I Get That a Lot (CBS)
Middle Men (Paramount Feature Film)